Secator Morgan, who is chairman of the committee, has been acrupulously cureful about expressing opinions upon the Hawalian question, but he is known to be a firm believer in the wisdom of althebing the islands to this country as a part of it, just as Alaska is at present attached, but the fact that he has very recently introduced a bill in the senate providing a form of government for any acquired territory lends plausibility to the supposition that he is looking forward to possibilities far beyond anything included in the resolution under which the committee is authorized to conduct its present hearing. It appears probable that when the committee reports it will, so far as Mr. Morgan can direct the chalacter of the report, stagooth over the events with report, stagoth over the events with which they were concerned and declare that a closed era.

"I believe that the story that there is an organization for the purpose of booming Mr. Harrison for president in 1896 comes from some person or persons who begin to think that Mr. Harrison will prove to be a formidable candidate should be conclude to let his name go before the convention next time. Their evident purpose is to kill him off.

"I don't believe there is any booming organization in existence, and I am certain that I am not at the head of any such movement, or in any way connected with it.

"Recent events tend to bring Mr. Har-rison out in striking contrast to the pres-ent administration, and may be a cause for alarm on the part of those who may desire some other candidate for the pres-idency."

Speakership Fight.

Coursaux, Ohio, Dec. 28.—The speakership contest seems to be more unsettled than ever. To a disinterested observer it is evident that both candidates, Mesers. Boxwell and Griffin, have depended upon the support of some members who are not willing to unqualifiedly support them. A large majority of the members of the house declare that they are not bound to either Boxwell or Haskell, who is eagerly looking after the unpledged members.

In this contest the developments reveal some strange political bedfellows. Et Governor Foster appears working against McKinley, while ex-Governor Foraker joins hands with him in helping along the political interest of his old enemy, ex-President Harrison.

He was home Christmas and seemed very happy and cheerful, and was very glad to be home with his children. He left Wednesday morning to go back to work, and no reason can be thought of by his friends why he should commit suicide. Mrs. Kopp's sisters said Mr. and Mrs. Kopp had lived happily and have three children, aged 5, 7 and 9 years respectively. Mr. Kopp owned the house where his family resided, and though not wealthy, was in comfortable circumstances.

This drove him almost mad and without giving his friends or parents any notice, he left for some foreign country. They were Mrs. Susan Roe of Detroit, Mary Searle and Hannah Searle of Rockford, Illinois; Mrs. Giddy of Detroit, John Willcocks of Wempleton. Illinois, and Samuel Willcocks of Woodsley, Ontario. Today the money was distributed in Windsor. The total amount of the fortune was $72,000 in American money and the sum was divided into six shares. Unexploised Outrage Of the Part of Assar-United States Notified and Action to Be Taken.

New York, Dec. 28.—The steamship G. W. Clyde, from Turk's island, which arrived here today, brings a report of an outrage inflicted on the crew of the American schooner Henry Crosby, which lost her bearings and put into the port of Old Axua, San Domingo. The first officer and four seamen got into the boat and pulled for the shore. When about 300 yards out a file of soldiers in the uniform of the Dominican government came running down to the beach, and leveling their carbines at the men in the small boat, fired. One of the rowers there up his hands and fell over into the bottom of the boat.

The others paused in surprise and affright, when suddenly another volley was east among them by the soldiers on shore. This time the first officer was struck. The other three sailors turned the boat about and desperately pulled for the schooner.

It was given out at the time that she was to look after American interests during the local embroglio there.

IN BAD SHAPE

English Trade the Past Year Has Been

London, Dec. 28.—The Pail Mall Gazette publishes a review of the trade of the year, compiled from the official returns, during which it says:

Trade during 1833 was worse even than in 1892. A general gloom hangs over the country's industries. The imports for eleven months declined £17,500,000 as compared with 1892, and exports declined £8,500,000. There has been a shrinkage in every important class of imports and exports. Tobacco with an increase of imports of £67,000, and manufactured articles made in Germany and elsewhere, with increased imports amounting to £860,000, are the only exceptions. As an aid to this latter competition, machinery for mill works has been exported.

ter competition, machinery for mill works has been exported.

The coal trade and the trade in textiles have declined enormously, and the value of the yarms exported have diminished nearly £2,750,000. The shipments of coal have suffered an equal reduction, and there is a terible depression in all trades, due to the coal strike, prior to which trade was reviving. The cotton trade was not only injured by the coal strike but by increased foreign competition, and the quantity of raw cotton imported is remarkably small; less than 10,000,000 cwts, have been purchased in all countries; whereas, more chased in all countries; whereas, more than this was obtained in America alone

During the past month the export of cotton yarns and twists has declined in bulk; but has been compensated for by an increase in price. The decline in the exports of cotton piece goods is serious. Last month their value decreased £20.000. Since 1891 there has been an unbroken decline in the quantity and the value of these goods for eastern demands. On the other hand, American trade is steadily advancing; but what effect the change of the tariff will cause is a matter of conjecture.

Brazil and the other South American republics, except Chili, have been large buyers. Merchants generally, however, are looking with contidence for an improving trade in 1894, provided there is no serious strike or lockout.

The marksmanship of the government gunners showed considerable improvement and comparatively few of their shots went wide the mark. Succeeding Mr. Wade, Attorney Trude made the closing speech for the prosecution. His address was eloquent and at times bordered on the sensational. During Trude's address Prendergast jumped to his feet and exclaimed: "I was not animated by malice. I swear before high heaven that I was not. You are my murderer if I die." Chicago, Dec. 28.—It was whispered among the officers of the state at the Coughlin trial today that an attempt to tamper with the jury hal been discovered. No harm is done as yet, it is thought, and the suspected persons are being constantly chadowed by officers who will arrest them should any overt act be attempted. The effort to communicate with the jury was made in the court room during the progress of the trial. The persons chosen as the emissaries of the conspirators are two women. Their constant daily attendance at the trial excited some suspicion and a watch was set on them.

In consequence of the discovery of the attempts of the women to communicate CHICAGO, Dec. 28.- It was whis watch was set on them.

In consequence of the discovery of the attempts of the women to communicate with the jury a new rule regarding admission to the court-room was put in force today. Tickets will be issued bereafter only by Chief Bailiff Carolan and each ticket will be good for only one session of court. By this means only persons known to be reputable will be admitted and the obscule attendants at the trial will be shut out.

Jones Carison, owner of the noted Carlson cottage, was the first witness called in the case today. He was called to show the connection of the Carlson cottage with the romepiracy. Martin Burke rented the cottage in March, but did not occupy it. He testified to the furniture being moved in, but no sign place till the evening of May 4, when, for the first time, lights sere een in the cottage.

When the trial was resumed in the afternoon, juror Clark Bruce, speaking for his colleagues, asked for the plat showing the location and relative positions of the Carlson cottage, the house in the rear where the Carlsons lived and the house of P. O'Sullivan. This interest arose from Jonas Carlson's testimony relating to Williams visit to the ice man after renting the cottage and the conversations on the witnesses regarding his tenants. The jury gathered around the plat and inspected it closely.

Johanna Carlson, wife of Jonas, added a little to the old man's story of his dealings with Martin Burke, alias Frank Williams. When Williams called to pay the second month's rent, April 20, she asked him: "What's the reason you don't move in. We don't like to see the cottage empty so long." Williams replied: "It may take a week, and it may take a little more than a week, before we can move in."

The defense objected to Mrs. Carlson saying anything about a stranger familiar with the circumstances of Williams renting the cottage and the contents of the letter received from Hammond, in diana, who called on the Carlsons late in May and wanted to pay the rent for the cottage for Williams. The object of the stale is to show that the scheme of the conspirators was to keep secret, as long as possible, the scene of the murder with all the attendant evidences of a crime. The court reserved its decision and ordered a recess taken until tomorrow.

Judge Tuthill, at the close of the session this afternoon, admonished, cautioned and read the law to the Coughlin jury. His honor declared that he had not been impelled to address the jury by any reports he had received reflecting upon their integrity or because may outsiders had attempted to speak to the jurore about the case. I was just cautioning them and refreshing their minds as to their duty as jurors and citizens."
